Passcorr, December 10, 1870. BAUCY REDSKINS

We have heretofore spoken of the acts of party of Indians that recently visited the aettlements in Chino Valley, twenty miles north of Prescott, but we did not relate half their mean, saucy doings, after they had become aware that their outrageous demands for provisions would not-could not-be complied with. They actually insulted the women, and tried to force their way into the house in which the women and children had taken refuge, but were pushed back by Mesara. Posile and Farrington. After being pushed back, they flourished their guns and knives, and some of them pulled the strings of their bows so say agely that they made them ring. They would have attacked the house but for fear of Postle, who stood by a port-hole, through which they saw him, standing beside a pile of loaded weapons, which they well knew he would shoot at them, if the worst came to the worst.

At one house, a double-breasted savage picked up a dirty old ment sack, and threw it on the verandah. The owner of the house picked it up and threw it away. The Indian threw it back. Again the owner of the house threw it off, and again diff Mr. Savage throw it back. By this time, the white man became a little riled, and threw the old sack as far as he could; into the corrat. Mr. Indian started after it, brought it back, and, we are his berned, actually threw it in the white man's face! Our fraters ton imagine the feelings of this man, but he did not resent the insult, well knowing that by doing so, his own life, as well as the lives of his wive and children, and of every person is the valley, would be sacrifieed, for the savages were in force, well armed, and fery determined. After leaving the houses, they called at the camp of some Texas cattle men, and forced them to kill a fat ox for them. These savages, let it be remembered, called themselves "good Apache-Mohaver!"

Advertise, Advertise!

A giance at the advertising columns of the papers published in this Territory of Arizona cannot fail to impress strangers with the belief that there is mighty little business transacted in the Territory, and but few live, energetic business men, This is not the case, however, although it may, and does, seem so. The most charitable, if not the most truthful, excuse we can make for this bek of spirit, enterprise, or whatever you wish to call it, among many of our business men, is that they are too bashful to tell people, through the press, what they have for sale. We hope this bashfulness will not grow on them, or stick to them much longer. But, for fear it should, wh advise purchasers to look well to the advertising columns of the papers, and buy from those who patronize them the most liberally, for, of a truth, those business men who help support the papers by making known their business, and advertising what they have for sale, or trade, or what they wish to purchase, are the most liberal dealers, and the truest friends of the Territory.

The Holidays will soon be upon as, when every person will have more or less money to spend, and we hope to see some show of spirit, on the part of "bashful" business usen, in this master advertising.

Stephen Girent used to say in his old age: I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the prejude to wealth. And i have made it as luvariable rule, too, to advertise in the dullest; times as well as in the busiest, long experience. having taught me that money thus spent is well hid out; as by keeping my business continually, before the public, it has secured many sales that I otherwise would have lost,"

Scarcely a work passes that we are not called rapon to chemicic something new, regarding the growing settlements on Salt Eliver, in this county, all of which settlements are known and come under the name "Phoenix," which name, if we are correctly informed, was given the place by Fred. Henry and Jack. W. Swilling, several years ago, the post was good. The valley-one of the largest, most productive on the Pacific coast, was once the seat of Empire of the semi-civilized Indians of Arizons, as the numerous rains of houses, water ditches, ecoking stensils, etc., attest, and it may be that the seat of government of the Territory will soon be located manufacturing resources, and, as manufactorics toust soon be established at proper points in tiris Territory, their founders will be cortain to pay and we hope they will not be disappleinted. due attention to the tateut power of the immense volume of water which flows down Salt Rivery past Phornix.
